

SEL In Action

Once a school adopts a SEL program, the school begins the process of integrating the curriculum and strives to reach community influence. It transforms schools into therapeutic institutions for diagnosing and treating perceived social and emotional problems. Children are screened for mental health issues and their skills and progress are tracked with surveys and assessments. This process creates a massive data collection and does NOT require parental consent. Often times parents are unaware of the implementation of these programs because they are disguised by innocuous and ambiguous language.

SEL Language

Parents should watch for these key words often associated with Social Emotional Learning:

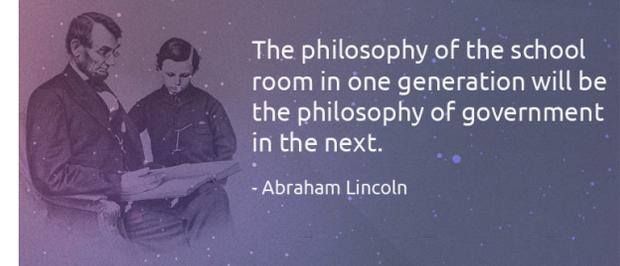

Social
Emotional
Mindful/Mindfulness
Stress Reduction
Growth Mindset
Just/Justice
Equitable/Equal
Fair
Society
Global/Globalism
Diverse/Diversity
Whole/Holistic
Mental Health
Inclusion/Welcoming

Expel SEL

Social Emotional Learning, SEL, is the latest craze infiltrating the education system. SEL programs are designed to educate the “whole child” and shift the school culture to satisfy progressive ideology. SEL relies heavily on brainwashing techniques to psychologically prepare students to accept new cultural norms.

Where does it come from?

The Collaborative for Academic, Social and Emotional Learning (CASEL). There are numerous SEL programs to choose from, but they all center around 5 “core competencies”.

- Self-awareness- recognizing one’s emotions, thoughts and their influence on behavior
- Self-management: regulating one’s emotion, thoughts and behaviors effectively in different situations
- Social-awareness: ability to empathize and understand social and ethical norms for behavior
- Relationship skills: establish and maintain relationships with diverse individuals and groups
- Responsible decision-making: behavior based on considerations of social norms

Who is willing to give the government education system the right to decide how to influence your child’s beliefs and values? If you are a person of faith, any faith, are you willing to allow the school to derail what you have instilled in your child? What happens when a generation of students have been molded into a “one size fits all” box that was created to CONFORM?

Who supports SEL?

- National Education Association (NEA)
- Rockefeller Philanthropy
- Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation
- Chan Zuckerberg Initiative

SEL Dangers

- Encourages groupthink and discourages individuality
- Teaches children what makes themselves or others feel good is of highest value
- Seeks to modify students values, beliefs and behaviors to accept new social norms
- Indoctrinates students to support social justice causes that may differ from the values learned at home
- Undermines family morals and parental rights
- Teachers implement SEL as untrained psychologists
- Does not require parental consent
- Based on little credible scientific research
- Massive mental health data collection
- Students are consistently exposed to propaganda and brainwashing
- Emphasis on political correctness

Cost

SEL is extremely expensive and time consuming. Businesses and Special Interest groups are encouraged to get involved in SEL. Many grants from varying companies (including Eli Lilly Pharmaceutical Company) have been offered to help schools begin implementing these programs. In return the companies have influence in the school and on counseling services children receive. They also have access to the data collected for each student. SEL also takes a ton of time away from academics.

What can you do?

- Find out if your school has a SEL program
- Knowledge is power, spread the word
- opt your child out of SEL curriculum- Once a school has adopted SEL your child will still be exposed to some aspects of it because it is a school culture change, however, tell them your child is not permitted to have assignments based on SEL and they will need to provide alternatives.
- Educate your school board and demand the removal of SEL- many people are not aware of the real agenda behind SEL
- Don’t take our word for it, do your own research
